

Innovative Administrative Reforms in Economically Developed Towns in China

Zhong Tantan^{1*}, He Ji²

^{1}School of Politics and Public Management, Soochow University, Soochow, P.R. China*

²School of Business, Soochow University, Soochow, P.R. China

¹zhongtantan8405@gmail.com, ²jihe8404@gmail.com

Abstract

This paper sought to analyze the diverse elements of economically developed towns and focused on the elements that influence the administrative system. Moreover, it explored the problems faced by these towns and the approaches used to solve these problems. It aimed to identify one breakthrough in the administrative system that can be used to promote the effective and rapid growth of economically developed towns. This paper also present insights that can facilitate future research on economically developed towns in China.